

CAREER SUNFLASHES

Is That a Diaper in Your Briefcase?

Finally a job search website offering access to the skilled recruiting resource of professional women wishing to balance kids and careers. Started by a mom for moms, YummyMummyCareers.com addresses the job search needs of women wanting to find a family-friendly employer.

Faced with low employment rates, employers are increasingly challenged when recruiting talented candidates. YummyMummyCareers.com offers access to a hard to reach segment of the employable population.

"Often women who have been out of the work force for an extended period have incredible skill sets but are unsure how to re-ignite their careers," said Sarah Fowles, president of Yummy Mummy Careers Corp. "To address these needs, the website offers accessibility to job postings and resources to connect the right candidates with the right employers."

Offering accessibility to desirable employment for professional women, YummyMummyCareers.com is a positive force in balancing family life and career achievements.